

Dear May Lo,

Thank you for once again writing us at Christian Questions Radio. You cited Matthew 24:14, "And this gospel of the kingdom will be preached throughout the whole inhabited earth as a testimony to all nations, and then the end will come." You wondered if the end would not be able to come if even one person had not heard the gospel.

"Write down the revelation and make it plain on tablets so that a herald may run with it."
(Habakkuk 2:2)

The Bible, which is the Gospel message, has been translated into all national tongues of the world; and thus every nation, representatively, has been made acquainted with the letter of God's message. Although the Bible has been a witness to all nations, it has not been a witness to all individuals. Many individuals have never seen the Bible or even heard of the word of God. Still others have been acquainted with the Gospel message and have rejected it. But we are assured that God rewards those who earnestly seek Him. (Hebrews 11:6) We are comforted in our belief that anyone truly seeking Him has found His precious word.

God knows the end from the beginning. The unfolding of His plan is on His timeline. The end of this age will come in due time, not one day sooner or one day later than the Almighty One has deemed it. "For the revelation awaits an appointed time; it speaks of the end and will not prove false. Though it linger, wait for it; it will certainly come and will not delay." (Habakkuk 2:3)

We hope we have answered your question. Please write us again.

Sincerely,
